STUDENT SOCIETIES

The student societies operating in our university aim to ensure that all our students spend their time outside of education productively by organizing professional, scientific, social, artistic, cultural and sports activities. Our aim is not only to enable students to gain academic competence, but also to develop team spirit and representation skills in a social sense and to enable them to prepare for life with self-confidence. Societies are a meeting place for students in line with their common interests. They are the starting point for new friendships with creative projects.

SAC

The Self-Access Center (SAC) at the School of Foreign Languages provides a vibrant and stress-free environment where students can practice English through various materials and activities, with or without the guidance of a teacher. The SAC creates an immersive experience primarily in English, while also incorporating Arabic in different ways. The main goal of the SAC is to enhance English language learning beyond the traditional classroom setting.

SAC at ASBU helps students develop both independent learning skills (learner autonomy) and language ability in four skills (reading, writing, listening, and speaking). In order to ensure students acquire independent learning skills, SAC offers regular workshops on self-study skills and shares information about useful websites and online applications.

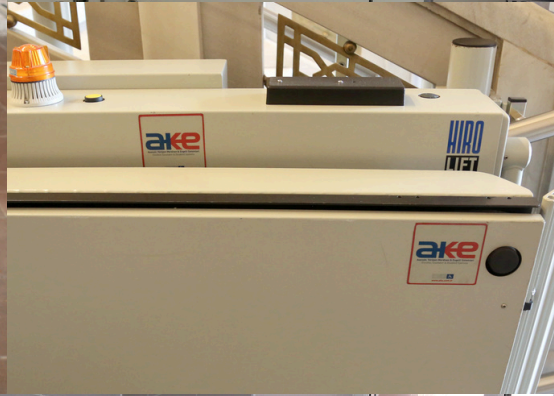

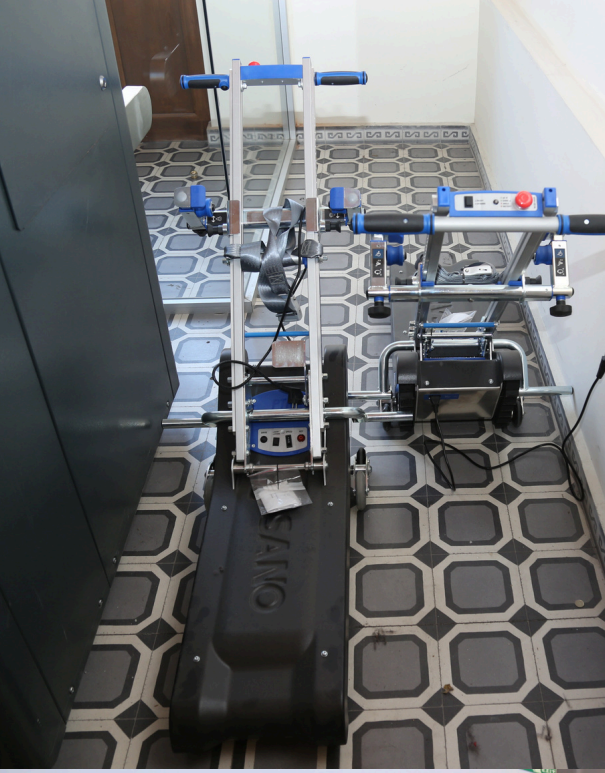

ASBU School of Foreign Languages was deemed worthy of the "Orange Flag" award within the scope of the Barrier-Free University 2024 awards given by the Council of Higher Education in order to raise awareness and disseminate good practices regarding the access of disabled individuals to venues, educational opportunities and socio-cultural activities at universities.
